

FROM NURSE TO ENTREPRENEUR

AT 39 I QUIT MY JOB. WHEN MOST WORKERS ARE ENTERING THEIR highest earning years and looking forward to promotions, I hung it up—even with a husband, two young boys, and a mortgage and bills to pay.

I'd worked full-time as a registered nurse for 14 years and enjoyed it—it definitely paid the bills—but I wanted more. I wanted the freedom to work when I decided, not when my employer said; I wanted something that was creative and fun, that offered unlimited earning potential; and I wanted to travel the world and take my family with me!

I began working my part-time Close To My Heart business full-time. In the few years I'd been a Consultant I'd seen the potential: six-figure incomes, exotic trips, friendships, and fun. I'd even worked every spare minute to earn my very first trip to Hawaii—and that was working my business part-time. I wanted more!

“I currently earn more with my Close To My Heart business than I ever earned working full-time as a registered nurse.”

My husband and I figured that if I could consistently earn $1,200 a month with Close To My Heart we could make ends meet. So, I did the math and figured out what I needed to sell to make that income with my 22% base commission and personal override commissions. Any Downline override commissions would be a bonus for me. I wasn't worried about making the $300* minimum required each quarter to stay an active Consultant; that was never a problem with our great products!

I started working my Close To My Heart business like a business—with consistency and purpose. I show up for work every day. I work a minimum of 20 hours per week including two to three scrapbook classes each week. I've also built a wonderful Downline team and have made some lifelong friends.

I've never missed a mortgage payment since I quit my job, I bought myself a new car, and I provide lots of extras for my kids like cell phones and new athletic shoes and equipment. I've also taken my family on several fabulous trips I've earned, including a Mediterranean cruise!

I currently earn more with my Close To My Heart business than I ever earned working full-time as a registered nurse. There is no other job that I know of where you have so much control over your personal income. I know that the harder I work, the more income I will make. There are not many jobs out there where you can do that! Close To My Heart has made it possible for me to realize my dreams. It has truly changed my life and I will always be grateful! ♥

*US dollars; Canadian minimum sales required per quarter is $330.
